

Unveiling the Complexities of Border Dynamics: Exploring "Fences, Mobility, and Citizenship at the Northeast India-Bangladesh Border"

At the heart of the Northeast India-Bangladesh border lies a complex tapestry of fences, mobility, and citizenship. These elements intertwine to create a unique and challenging landscape that has shaped the lives of countless individuals and communities. In her groundbreaking book, "Fences, Mobility, and Citizenship at the Northeast India-Bangladesh Border," Dr. Ritambhara Hebbar delves deep into this fascinating region, shedding light on the intricate relationship between borders, movement, and belonging.

The Fences that Divide

The fences that separate Northeast India from Bangladesh are not merely physical barriers; they are potent symbols of division and control. Dr. Hebbar meticulously documents the history and construction of these fences, revealing their role in reinforcing national boundaries and restricting the movement of people. The impact of these fences goes beyond the physical; they also create psychological boundaries that shape identities and perceptions.
